

Political Weather: How experiencing climate change shapes our political lives

Cand.scient.pol. Søren Damsbo-Svendsen
Department of Political Science

UNIVERSITY OF COPENHAGEN

Assessment Committee

- Associate Professor Karina Kosiara-Pedersen (Chair), University of Copenhagen
- Associate Professor Patrick J. Egan, New York University
- Professor Rune Slothuus, Aarhus University

The assessment report writes

Overall, the dissertation represents an impressive collection of four articles, of which three are published, which provide a set of clear and robust empirical contributions to the overall research question, and bridging the cross-disciplinary climate opinion literature and behavioral political science. Each of the four articles and paper develops very distinct puzzles that are tested empirically with state-of-the-art methods. The dissertation is rich on empirical findings providing novel and robust findings, and it is written clearly.
